Save Our Schools, Save Our Country, and Save Your Family: Families are not beholden to schools, but schools should be beholden to families. This engaging, humorous history-based lecture promises to cause everyone to go home with ideas about how to change their own family structure to ensure their kids are getting the education they need to help re-shape America.

Brian S. Collier, Ph.D.

Graduate Faculty, Alliance for Catholic Education (ACE); Fellow, Institute for Educational Initiatives; Affiliate Faculty, Poverty Studies, American Studies, and Education, Schooling and Society

Brian Collier holds a Ph.D. in American Indian History and the History of Education in America. He teaches for the Alliance for Catholic Education and is a fellow in the Institute for Educational Initiatives. His research in education is at the intersection of where families and teachers can truly partner to take back their families, their schools, and their neighborhoods. His historical research on Native people focuses on American Indian boarding schools and their legacy. Collier has written articles and book chapters on Native Americans, the American West, teaching in the American West, race relations, gender, and the Harlem Globetrotters.

The Hesburgh Lecture Series:

Since 1986, the Hesburgh Lecture Series has brought a taste of Notre Dame's academic excellence to alumni and their local communities. The lectures, hosted with community partners by Notre Dame clubs throughout the country, have perpetuated the example of President Emeritus Reverend Theodore Hesburgh, C.S.C., as a lifelong learner.
